First off, I hope you all had a great summer and a smooth return to the routine of school life. A few parents have already mentioned to me that September, and the return of school, couldn't have come round quickly enough - I won't mention any names!

September always brings with it the usual mix of nerves and excitement. I think I speak for most teachers when I say we spend most of the final week of the holidays trying to convince ourselves that we still remember how to teach! Fortunately, I can reassure you that it didn't take us long to find our groove, and we are delighted to be back. The children, as always, have been fantastic. They have slipped back into school life as if they were never away. Uniform has never looked smarter and speaking to the children, I know they feel super smart with their ties and shiny shoes. Thank you for supporting our efforts to promote our uniform policy.

I have already seen such rich and brilliant learning taking place across the school. Our new Opening Worlds Curriculum is being introduced in KS2. All the CELT Primary Schools will be implementing this humanities curriculum and it is all about bringing History, Geography and RE to life through the power of stories... Teachers and pupils are already loving it! We are also introducing a new Maths fluency scheme called Winning with Number to help the children develop their core fluency number skills. So it is exciting times!

100% for our attendance winners this week. Well done to Sea Turtles class
